The Buggy Woman, the feature picture at the Theatorium. This fine colored picture tells a pretty fairy story that is not only pleasing to the eye, but is also very interesting. An old witch transforms children into high vegetables and carries them home to her den, but a fairy tells a boy how to overcome the witch and he does so, rescuing the children and releasing them from the vegetable bondage. One other very laughable comedy and two good dramas.

The Lonely Villa, at the Conique, a first-class biograph production. A very thrilling picture in which a band of crooks by trick get the man of the house out of the way and leaving wife and children alone they then proceed to re-occupy the home. An accident to the man's automobile fortunately intercepts and apprehends the thugs who are locked up. A new and very funny short comedy biograph, up to the highest standard for clever acting and pleasing quality.

Three pictures today and tomorrow the Bijou Theater will present "Fun with a Dummy" is on the comic order, and is really interesting besides. "The Buggy Woman" is an illusion picture of high rank. Perhaps the best one of the program is "The Story of a Psyche," a wonderful spectacular production portraying a mythological story. Roy Welch is fast becoming popular with the Bijou audiences with his rendering of 14 songs late today, it is "I want a Postal Card From You."
